

Near Eastern Archaeology

Near Eastern Archaeology brings to life the ancient worlds from Mesopotamia to the Mediterranean. Scholarly, yet accessible, it features vibrant images and authoritative analysis of archaeological discoveries to illuminate the people, culture, history and literature of the ancient Middle East. For over sixty years, Near Eastern Archaeology, formerly Biblical Archaeologist, has reached readers inspired and fascinated by this heritage. NEA is published four times each year in March, June, September, and December by the American Schools of Oriental Research.
